Frequently Asked Questions

How do we register?

The process is very simple. There isn't a form, you just need to send me the details by letter or e-mail. It should at least look fairly official so I could do with knowing what position you hold at the club if you will be the one sending the details.

What information is required?

I need to know which county and region the club is in (humour me, I'm not a GNAS staff member, only a volunteer).

I then need a good description of the colours you wish to register especially if they have a complex design.

That's about it really but if you want the official version you can find all the details you need on the GNAS Website. Go to the Documents section and look at the GNAS Rules of Shooting - Rule 307. Also the Shooting Administrative Procedures - SAP 8. You will need to look at both of these and I would suggest that you do look at these on the website rather than an older hard copy to make sure you have the up to date version. It might be useful to look at this edition of the Register to see examples of how other club's colours have been described.

Why do we have to register before 31st August?

Registration is an annual process and the deadline of 31st August is final so that Judges don't have to keep checking for updates but just have one register per year to work from. If you do miss the deadline I'm afraid you've had it then till registration for the following year.

When can we wear our registered colours?

A new Shooting Colours Register is published each year and comes into force on 1st October in each year. As long as your registration is received before 31st August you can then wear your colours from 1st October in that year. Colours can be worn at Record Status shoots and at shoots where organisers have specified that GNAS Dress Regs are required. Your colours can, of course, be worn by your members any time at club events or non-record status tournaments where GNAS Dress regs are not specifically requested.

If we register colours can we still wear green and/or white?

This is a bit more tricky. Wherever I have been asked this question my answer has been yes. My view is that, in theory, a 'complete' shooting colours register would list every club and every club would already have an entry for green and white garments. Where clubs register their own colours these would be added to the green and white entry, not inserted instead of green and white. In practice I am not about to produce a list of over a thousand club names and put green and white next to every one, it just wouldn't be practical and it would be ridiculous to ask every judge to print off such a list - hence the clubs' individual colours only being listed. In addition to the green and white - not instead of.
